TENNIS HONOURS AGAIN GO TO COAST

Visitors Fight Out Between Them-selves Principal Finals In Interior Championships

Concluding a week of real Okanagan summer weather, broken only by one short shower, the annual interior championships tournament, under the auspices of the Kelowna Lawn Tennis Club, came to a successful conclusion on Saturday evening with Vancouver players in possession of all the principal honours, thus repeating what happened last year. While many of the familiar faces were absent and the play lacked the outstanding brilliance of previous tournaments, a number of newcomers won the approval of spectators by their skill on the courts and fine sportsmanship.

During the early part of the week a few fleecy clouds helped to screen the players from the ardent rays of the sun, aided by cooling breezes, but as the tournament drew towards its close, the clouds disappeared and the temperature seemed to get hotter daily. Unused to such intensity of heat, several of the players plainly showed its effects on Saturday. The final in the Men's Singles, usually the most exciting of all the events and the most keenly contested, was quite lackadaisical. Williams very evidently suffering from the heat. At times flashes of brilliancy were shown and the placing and playing on the back lines and corners was quite well worth watching.

Although the tournament lacked the international flavour of previous years, there was a much better representation of the interior. Nelson sent a fine contingent, who, although all practically High School boys, showed real promise and should be heard of in a few years among the finalists.

Quarter-Finals.

In the Men's Singles, D. Williams, of Vancouver, proved too good for Carr-Hilton, of Vernon, who, however, made a plucky fight but was unable to secure a game in the two sets. The A. Greig and A. E. Hill encounter was a good one. Local enthusiasts were hoping that Ernie would take this one and so secure a place in the semi-finals, but while some of his plays were of the old hill type and he gave flashes of his true form, he was erratic, while Greig played a brilliant and steady game to win 6-2, 6-4.

The best encounter of the quarter-finals was that between Brawn and the veteran Metcalfe. This produced some rare tennis, both players giving sparkling displays, but youth triumphed and Brawn won 6-2, 6-4, although he had to earn his victory. Romano rather surprised his followers by taking three games from Yoshi in the first set. Yoshi did not seem to feel at home and did not hit his stride. Credit must be given the young school lad, however, for his fine fight against one of Vancouver's best. Yoshi won 6-3, 6-0.

In the Ladies' Singles, Mrs. Haggart took two sets from Miss M. Taylor, 6-0, 6-2, and Mrs. Muir won from Miss Pease, 6-4, 7-5. The latter was a real game, and Miss Pease won the hearty approval of the spectators by a very plucky fight, after she had just completed another hard battle. The evening and it was much to her credit that Miss Pease made this experienced player extend herself to the limit to win. Mrs. Ross also had to fight to advance in beating Mrs. Mangin. Mrs. Mangin took 7 games out of 13. Miss O'Shea eliminated Mrs. Sharps, 6-3, 6-0.

The Men's Doubles also produced some rare tennis.

The semi-finals produced the best tennis of the tournament. In the Men's Singles, Williams beat Greig in a great battle. This game was one sparkling with brilliant volleys, drives and recoveries. Some of the plays were of the very highest class, and it was real delight to the spectators. Williams won the first 6-2, but had to concede the second 2-6, and won the third 6-2.

In the Brawn and Yoshi tussle, Yoshi was the favourite. Brawn was suffering from a bad shoulder which compelled him to serve underhand and handicapped his overhand driving. Yoshi took the first set with little difficulty. Brawn simply was not in the picture. Many of the spectators moved to watch the Williams-Greig duel, and were astounded when they heard the umpire announce that Brawn had the score 5 games and 50 love in his favour. One more point would give him the set. However, Yoshi came to life and by a brilliant rally took the next four games, but Brawn snatched the last of the set and forced a third game being played. Brawn then showed his real form and, although often in danger, took the final game 7-5, and so eliminated Yoshi from the singles.

Finals

The final of the Men's Singles was not up to the standard of the semi-finals. The game was tedious and listless. True, the playing was excellent and the placing a delight to watch, but the heat bothered both players and Williams in particular. However, the players had to go the limit to decide, Williams ultimately winning from Brawn, 8-6, 7-5, 2-6, 4-6, 6-3.

The Ladies' Singles produced some excellent tennis. In this also the semi-finalists were an all-Vancouver quartette. Mrs. Haggart, by steady and strong play, defeated Mrs. Muir 6-2 and 6-1, and then eliminated Mrs. Ross, who had defeated Miss O'Shea 3-6, 6-2, 6-1, by taking two straight

WATCH RAIN BARRELS AND SMALL PUDDLES

Prompt Treatment Will Check Hatching Of Mosquitoes

Complaints have been received by the Mosquito Control Association from various areas in the city during the last few weeks. All of these have been investigated and in every case the conclusion has been reached that the mosquitoes have hatched out in small puddles or rain barrels. Owners of property could assist by watching for these on their property and throwing a spoonful of coal oil on the puddles or in the water barrels.

A steady check has been kept on the city area all the season and the control appears to be as effective as it is possible to make it. No evidence of breeding on the lake shore has been observed for some time past.

Practically no complaints have been received from the outside areas. These have been sprayed periodically and the entire area kept under observation during the season, oil being applied as required.

Any time mosquitoes are observed in any area residents should have a look around their premises and see if there is any small body of water in which they can hatch. The smallest drop of coal oil will prevent them hatching for the future. It must be remembered that it is impossible to keep track of every little puddle in the huge area to be treated and that the public can assist by applying a little oil or, if necessary, calling Mr. H. A. Williams.

The funds of the Association are getting rather low and it will require great care to keep within the limits. Subscriptions or donations will be very acceptable. The Okanagan Loan & Investment Trust Company is the treasurer and will be pleased to receive subscriptions from those who feel able to contribute to the work of the Association.

Quarter-Finals.

The Ladies' Singles was one of the high lights of the tournament. Vancouver sent her best and they justified their title.

The Men's Doubles also resulted in Vancouver players-only meeting in the final stage. Brown and Williams, who had just completed a severe tussle in the semi-finals, were again paired, but this time they were victorious, winning 7-5, 6-2. The winners, who had played excellent tennis throughout, were deserving of their victory.

Vancouver again figured exclusively in the Ladies' Doubles, Mrs. Haggart and Miss O'Shea taking two straight sets from Mrs. Muir and Mrs. Ross, 6-2, 6-4.

The Mixed Doubles were won by Brawn and Miss O'Shea by fine combination and unity of action. Williams and Mrs. Ross, their opponents, made a valiant battle to win, but the chopping and marvellous back-hand driving of Brawn and the flashing drives and volleys of Miss O'Shea proved too much, and Brawn and Miss O'Shea won 6-3, 6-4.

Honours in the Veteran's Doubles went to Mallam and Stubbs, who sprung a surprise by giving the exit sign to Nicholson and Metcalfe by the score of 6-1, 6-1. It was not the fact that they won that surprised but that they held these two experienced players to single games in both sets.

The Ladies' Consolation Singles resulted in a win for Mrs. Taylor, who, by long driving and placing, was able to beat Mrs. Mangin, 6-4, 6-0.

Simpson, of Nelson, came through a strenuous contest in the Men's Consolation by defeating McAllister, 6-4, 5-6, 6-2. This set was something of a miniature marathon as the heat was felt by both players, consequently the usual pep was lacking. The games, however, were decidedly interesting, and worth watching.

In the Mixed Handicap, Mr. and Mrs. Carr-Hilton, who had been playing a good game throughout, were rewarded and took the honours home to Vernon in defeating Ted Romano and Miss Greig, 6-4, 6-1, 6-1.

Joan Taylor defeated Mrs. Barton for the Girls' Junior event, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4. While lacking something of the spectacular play provided last year, especially by Langlie and Nordstrom, the tournament furnished much excellent tennis, especially in the semi-finals, in which the excitement was keen and the players had to go the limit. An interesting and commendable feature was the wealth of young talent that participated in the play, especially the Nelson contingent.

At the conclusion of play on Saturday evening, the prizes were presented to the winners. Mrs. B. F. Boyce, wife of the Honorable President, graciously officiating at the little ceremony, held on the lawn to the west of the Club House, with the assistance of Mr. H. G. M. Gardner, Tournament Secretary.

In returning thanks for a presentation made to him, the Official Referee, Mr. E. Nicholson, expressed keen appreciation of the kindness invariably extended to him while acting in the same capacity in former years, and he declared that, while the standard of play might vary from year to year at the tournament, there was never any fluctuation in the quality of Kelowna tennis.

Mr. Brawn, in a few words, voiced the thanks of the Vancouver visitors. He had always heard the tournaments

FIGHT NOT ZEE BULL BUT MAKE HEEM FOR EATS

Senior Bologna Is No Mere Toreador But A Supra-Superior Barbecue Chef

Senior Bologna since he has come to Kelowna he has been insoult!

For why? Because some hombre, with neither tact or good manners, has taken him for a common, ordinary bull-fighter.

"Si, senior, I zee great Bologna, barbeque extraordinaire to Alfonso, one-time King of Spain, have been took for a common torador—I zee caballero, I rough whose veins runs zee gravee—I mean, zee blood—of many generations of bull-dozers, or what you call 'em. Si, senior, of zee gallant 'eroes, who have convert zee toughest old bull into zee most elegant muligan or zee most exquisite bouillon. Zee bull-fighter! hah! caramba! alah and other kinds of hah! He is not in zee same class; he is zee common, low ruffian, bravo.

"But, lest I be misunderstood, do not think zat I shall serve to zee good peoples of Kelowna, at zee Gyro Barbecue, any old bull. Ah, no! zee tenderest of zee bootful young steer that shall have been kept in captivity and made to eat hees fool head off so as to make heem tender and ease on zee ol' man's toof. Upon my honour as a Spanish caballero, I swear eet—zee 'ol' dog shall melt in your mouf!"

The just pride of the noble and gallant Senior Bologna in his ancestral profession, moved him to resentment at being taken for something else than the supra-supreme barbeque of the world, but surely he would not have been so hostile if he had seen the lovely bull-fighting lady on Saturday night, whose identity in some way got mixed up with his in the mind of the incautious citizen who aroused his fierce Spanish wrath.

Headed by two pipers, clad in full Highland regalia, with the tartans and a big drum and kettle drum, the Gyros marched in procession round the principal streets, exhibiting a great black and white steer, presumably as the tit-bit for the barbecue tonight. The animal looked quite realistic except for the legs that propelled it along, which had far from a bovine appearance. A charming lady, clad in full foreador costume, which set off her trim figure to advantage, piloted the beef along, but the legs developed a tired feeling and decided to lie down and rest outside the Post Office, and quite a struggle ensued before the fair foreador mastered her unwilling charge and proceeded to once more into activity.

The City Band, tooting happily, brought up the rear of the procession, riding in state in a covered truck. The Gyros wore their tall straw hats, painted a silver hue and bearing the Bar-B-Q in blue. It was good advertising and attracted much attention.

But, for all that, the memory of mankind is short, and this is to remind you that the Gyro Barbecue is on now in full swing. The fun will last from mid-afternoon to midnight, and there will be lots of it, and don't mistake. Don't fail to visit Senior Bologna and sample the deliciously browned and savoury meat, which only he can cook with such exquisite flavour. The inter-larders, there will be O! so many things to do and O! so many things to see. Final of the bathing beauty contest in the evening, sideshows and amusements of great variety, games for the kiddies in the afternoon, bonfire and dance at the Aquatic.

And the proceeds go to O! such a good purpose, the improvement and extension of the Gyro bathing beach at the south end of Bendzio Street, for use by the general public, where the kiddies can wade to their hearts' content in absolute safety and roll and play in the warm, clean sand.

So, even if your purse may be a little attenuated this year, loosen its strings and spend what you can spare in having a good time for the good of the community.

ATTEMPT TO MURDER CHINESE STATESMAN

SHANGHAI, July 23.—Two bombs and a fusillade of bullets greeted the arrival of T. V. Soong, Nationalist Minister of Finance, at the railway station here today. Tang Yut-fuh, the Minister's secretary, was killed. The crowd in the station became panic-stricken, shots exchanged between the four assailants, who escaped, and the police injuring six persons.

ALLEGED KILLER GIVEN UP TO U.S. BY CHINESE

SHANGHAI, July 23.—A dispatch from Peking states that the Chinese authorities at Tsinanfu have surrendered Dr. Francis F. Tucker, U.S. missionary, held for fatally shooting a Chinese employee of the mission hospital, to the U.S. Consul at Tsinanfu.

The hands of American authorities, Dr. Tucker will be tried under United States laws rather than under Chinese statutes.

At Kelowna spoken of enthusiastically, and he now realized that the praise lavished upon them by participants was fully warranted.

The brief proceedings closed with presentation of a bouquet to Mrs. Boyce.

LOCAL SEA CADETS GO UNDER CANVAS

Twenty-Eight Boys Are Spending Ten Days At Cedar Creek

The Kelowna Sea Cadet Corps, with a strength of twenty-eight boys, left on Wednesday for camp at Cedar Creek, where they expect to be for the next ten days. The instructors hope to be with them part of the time. Visitors will be welcome on Sunday, July 26th. Thanks to the ladies' committee, all the boys are now fitted out with summer uniforms, which are very cool and give an extremely workmanlike appearance.

The boys are most appreciative and grateful for the help of all those who have made the camp possible this year.

RELIEF TICKETS USED FOR GAMBLING

Government Agent At Vernon Discovers Issue

VERNON, July 23.—Discovery that the forty cent relief tickets are being used as pawns in "crap" games has led R. M. McGusty, Government Agent here, to discontinue issue of the tickets. Merchants here are persistent in being bothered by men who try to exchange the tickets for cash. Of ninety-eight men who registered for relief in day all but a few had just arrived from the prairies.

CONVENTION OF ADVENTISTS CONCLUDES

President Of B.C. Conference Tells Of Magnitude Of Missionary Work

(Contributed)

The convention of Seventh-Day Adventists, held during the past week in the City Park, came to a close on Tuesday night. In spite of the prevailing depressed economic conditions, the attendance this year exceeded that of last year, a large number bringing their own tents in addition to those erected by the officials of the convention, thus creating a canvas town of between thirty and forty tents. In addition, many others obtained quarters in rooms and at the various hotels of the city.

During the business sessions, Pastor H. A. Lukens, of Vancouver, was re-elected President of the B.C. Conference for another term of two years, and Mr. H. A. Shepherd was re-elected as Secretary-Treasurer. Mr. K. Astleford was elected Home Missionary and Field Missionary Secretary, while Miss Hilda Green was re-elected as Sabbath School Secretary and Pastor N. C. Erntson as Religious Liberty Secretary of the Conference.

One outstanding feature of the convention was a three-night series of lectures on the subject of "Spiritualism and the State of the Dead," by Evangelist A. A. Ruskier, who is President of the Western Canadian Union Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists.

Mr. F. W. Hackman, of Washington, D.C., rendered efficient service in describing the laymen's missionary movement while Mr. J. H. Roth, of Lacombe, Alberta, preached nightly in the German language in the smaller tent.

Professor W. W. Prescott, General Field Secretary of the Seventh-Day Adventists, and recognized as one of the foremost Bible scholars of the day, arrived late in the convention and gave a series of impressive Bible studies.

In his opening address before the convention, the President, Pastor H. A. Lukens, declared that, although there had been a great recession during the past year on the part of all denominations, the Seventh-Day Adventists had not recalled a single one of their twenty thousand missionaries, who were working in more than four hundred languages. The Seventh-Day Adventists were now conducting their work in seven times as many languages as any other single Protestant body, he stated, and they were now recognized as the largest missionary body in the world, doing one hundred times as much per member as the nearest competitor among the various Protestant churches. More than fifty million dollars a year was being expended in home and foreign work. He added that this marvellous work was not because Seventh-Day Adventists were better than other people, but he believed that was because they had the last great Message the world will ever hear.

Following Pastor Lukens, various other speakers stressed the world situation as evidence of the near return of Christ.

Some of the speakers have left for Vancouver, where another convention is to be held over the present week-end.

KING GEORGE TO OPEN GREAT SYDNEY BRIDGE

SYDNEY, Australia, July 23.—If King George is willing, he will stand in Buckingham Palace some time next year and cut a piece of ribbon in Sydney. The ribbon will be stretched across the entrance to Sydney Harbour Bridge, now under construction and looking upon as the greatest engineering feat ever attempted in Australia.

If the King approves the programme, elaborate electrical gear will be installed to make the long distance snipping possible. The King's voice will be carried 12,000 miles by radio and sight of him speaking into the microphone by television.

O.-C. T. CARAVAN DISAPPOINTING IN EXTENT

Only Four Cars From South—Lady Aviator Arrives In Baby Plane

The much-heralded Okanagan-Cariboo Trail caravan, arrival of which from the south had already been subject to several postponements, materialized on Monday evening as only four cars and one airplane instead of about fifteen to twenty cars. Whether the very hot weather or the repeated postponement of the date was responsible, was not learned, but the turnout was disappointing.

Those who arrived by car included Mr. Ray W. Clark, of Wenatchee, President of the Okanagan-Cariboo Trail Association, and Mrs. Clark; Mr. Frank W. Schultz, of Wenatchee, Publicity Agent; Mr. Ray G. Sheldon, Manager of the Okanagan Inn, Okanagan, Wash.; Mr. Carl E. Morek, Director, Western Hotels, Inc.; Mr. Adolph Schmidt, Seattle; Major J. Gordon Smith, Director of the Government Information Bureau, Victoria; Mr. George I. Wann, Victoria, and Constable W. J. Hatchell, of the B. C. Police, Penticton, escort. A service car accompanied the party.

Mrs. Charles Stohl, of Wenatchee, arrived in her baby plane at 5 p.m., piloted by Mr. W. F. Kammer, of Wenatchee. After making a large circle over the city, the gaily painted little ship, with the under side of the wings painted a brilliant red, made for Rutland, where a safe landing was effected, with the assistance of Mr. E. W. Barton, Secretary of the Board of Trade, who displayed a pennant to show the direction of the wind.

The whole party registered at the Royal Anne Hotel, where they were met by Mayor Rattenbury, who offered them a cordial welcome to Kelowna and the keys of the city. After breakfasting next morning at the Eldorado Arms, the journey was resumed, with luncheon at the Monte Belle Hotel, operated by Mr. J. Bowes, formerly of Kelowna, as the first objective, and Kamloops as the resting-place for the night. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Broad and Mr. and Mrs. B. McDonald helped to swell the motorcade with their cars. Mr. McDonald, who is Vice-President of the O.-C. T. Association, acting as marshal from Kelowna to the Coast.

Mrs. Stohl and her pilot also resumed their journey by air, with the intention of spending the night at Kamloops.

The baby "Aeronica" monoplane aroused much interest amongst those who had a chance to inspect it, as it embodies the latest ideas in economical air transport. Although a two-seater, the pilot and his passenger sitting side by side, it weighs only 500 pounds, and the tail can be picked up and swung round by any man of ordinary physique. The gasoline tank holds only eight gallons, the engine, which is twin-cylinder, air-cooled, being extremely economical of gas and oil. In fact, the pilot made the claim that he travelled all the way from Annapolis to Seattle, a distance of two thousand air miles, at a cost for these supplies of only $15.00, which, if correct, beats all other forms of transportation except riding. The engine is said to be the smallest two-cylinder that has been found to be efficient.

LONDON, July 23.—The seven-power conference upon aid to Germany concluded today.

Premier MacDonald stated: "We are very pleased. An agreement between seven powers is not easy to get but it has been reached, and it will be of the greatest importance in helping Germany."

GYRO GOVERNOR IS BACK FROM CONVENTION

Mr. R. G. Rutherford Returns From International Assembly

Mr. R. G. Rutherford, Governor of Gyro District No. 4, returned on Sunday from Hamilton, where he had been in attendance at the annual convention of Gyro International, together with Mr. Hugh McKenzie, who is remaining in Ontario for a vacation. The convention was a great success, there being 382 registrations, and the delegates received unbounded hospitality and had a very enjoyable time. Gyro Bob Abell, of Tacoma, Wash., was elected International President, and Gyro Harold Smith, of Milwaukee, Wis., Vice-President. The next convention will be held at San Francisco in 1932.

Mr. Rutherford describes employment conditions in the East as being, if anything, worse than in the West, owing to the larger industrial areas there. It is recognized that a real effort must be made to provide for those in need of relief, and it seems certain that the proposal to organize industrial battalions will materialize.

Returning west, Mr. Rutherford chose the Great Lakes route from Sania to Port Arthur to break the monotony of railway travel, encountering an electric storm of violence unparalleled by anything he had ever seen. Crop conditions on the prairies he found to vary greatly, from a complete failure in parts of southern and central Saskatchewan to a really good crop in Northern Alberta, where there had been heavy rains. Southern Alberta also received a rainfall but too late to benefit the grain.

Owing to pressure of business which was awaiting his return, Mr. Rutherford had to leave for Salmon Arm and other points on Monday afternoon before arrival of the caravan promoted by the Okanagan-Cariboo Trail Association, of which he is Secretary.

SHIPPERS FROWN UPON ROLLING OF CARS

Council Of Opinion That Such Movement Is Detrimental To Fruit Deal As A Whole

(Contributed)

The Okanagan Shippers' Council met at Vernon on Tuesday, July 21st, with a representative attendance of shippers from all parts of the Valley.

A discussion took place as to changing in prices and the low figures prevailing on apricots and apples. It was explained by the Price Committee that it was necessary to move apricots on this scale to compete with American apricots. Owing to the fact that the weight of the containers was not now figured in the duty, it made a difference in the laid down price of American apricots, and our price of $1.00 on No. 1s was more in line.

Some members felt that the duty on apples should have enabled the shippers to keep their prices up to a higher level on early fruit, but, after considerable discussion, the meeting arrived at the opinion held by quite a few that, regardless of what the duty was, our prices had to be gauged to meet the ability of the buying public to purchase and at $1.00 a box, with quantities pressing for movement, it was better to get a good steady movement than to hold out for a higher price and have the apples backing up on us. It was further decided that early apples would now be sold under their own name instead of being called "Green Cookers," wrapped apples to be sold at 25c higher than Household, namely, $1.25.

Early peaches are moving at $1.00 for 1s and 85c for 2s, although the movement is very light yet. This price is out of line with American imports on which no dump duty is available yet.

Other prices at which commodities are moving are as follows: peppers, 12c; egg plant, 12c; Clapps Favorite pears, Fancy, $1.50, Cee, $1.25. Clapps Favorite pears are expected to start the latter part of this month.

Vegetable Prices Cut To Meet Competition

Values on carrots and beets were reduced to $35.00 and on cabbage to $50.00, to meet competition from outside points, also the competition of local grown stuff at various centres. The movement of these commodities has dwindled down to a small proportion of what it was a week or ten days ago.

Rollers Undesirable

A resolution was passed that all rollers be discontinued as much as possible this year, and that when it is absolutely necessary to roll a car full information regarding the movement must be given to the Bureau of Information. It was felt by all that the movement of rollers should absolutely be cut out as far as possible, as it was detrimental to the fruit deal as a whole.

Export Questions

The matter of duty on British Columbia apples into France and also into Australia was taken up, ultimately being handed over to a special committee to handle in an effort to get some action that would be beneficial to the Valley.

Next Meeting, July 30th

The next meeting of the Council will be held in Vernon on Thursday, July 30th. In the meantime, any price adjustments that become necessary owing to increased quantities are left in the hands of a special committee.

BEAUHARNOIS COMMITTEE MAY REPORT TOMORROW

OTTAWA, July 23.—The report of the Beauharnois probe committee may be presented to the House of Commons tomorrow. The public hearings were concluded yesterday after five weeks in session.

In the parliamentary corridors rumours were in circulation that the Liberals and Conservatives on the committee had arranged a "saw-off" in connection with campaign funds. This was denied stoutly by several members. It was reported that the question of campaign funds had been left suspended and would be probed no further, due to an arrangement between the committee members. The Conservatives, it was reported, had agreed not to question prominent Liberals as to distribution of the money secured from P. O. Sweczy if the Liberals would agree not to subpoena several Conservative organizers, among them Gen. A. D. McRae.

WINFIELD

(Received too late for last week's issue)

Sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Sutherland in the loss of their only son, aged 16 years, by drowning last Friday morning. He and a companion, Clarence Hall, of Rutland, aged 13 years, were fishing from a canvas canoe. In some way it upset and Clarence, who could swim, tried to save John, who could not, but he was too heavy. Clarence managed to reach shore in a very exhausted condition where he was seen by Mr. Petrie and carried to the house and Dr. Campbell called. The body of John Sutherland was not found until Saturday afternoon. The funeral was held in Kelowna on Tuesday afternoon.

The annual school meeting was held Saturday evening. Mr. Shanks was returned as secretary of the School Board. Mr. Shanks has been Trustee of the Winfield School for twenty years. It was decided to build a teacher's residence of four rooms and bath, not to exceed $2,500 in price.

BOY SCOUT COLUMN

1st Kelowna Troop

Troop First I Self Last I

Edited by Harry Campbell

Orders for the week ending Thursday, July 30, 1931.

Duties: Orderly Patrol for the week, Wolves; next for duty, Eagles. Rallies: None till further notice.

The Scout Hike, July 25 to 27th. At 7.30 p.m. Sunday, sixteen eager Scouts loaded Chapman's truck with blankets, haversacks and provisions for the long trail to Little White Mountain. Though this was to be the third visit of the Troop to this peak, it was the first for all the present hikers with the exception of A. Stirling and H. Campbell.

The truck load of merry hikers left camp at 7.45 on the first and easiest lap of the journey. This took us past Crawford's Mill and on up a logging road to within some three miles of the railroad. Here we met Alister Cameron, who had gone ahead with the horses. We unloaded the truck and prepared our beds for the night. By 10 p.m. every one was tucked under cover watching the stars twinkle overhead. Sleep was long in coming to most of the boys that night. They were all so eager to be started on the thrilling stage of the hike that their minds could not rest. They were busy with thoughts of what the morning would bring. One excited hiker was so eager to be away that he woke the officers up at 3.30 a.m. to ascertain if he could begin preparations for the start. Others were awake and whispering long before the hour to be up.

At 5 a.m. the restraint of being quiet was broken. Busy hands were set to folding blankets and packs suitable to be strapped on the horses. Since no water was available at that spot, we were to hike to the well at the railway before having breakfast. Each one was allowed a hardtack sandwich to hide him till that time.

At 6.30 a.m. Alister proclaimed everything in readiness. We set out with A. Stirling in the van and myself bringing up the stragglers. There weren't many such to start with, for they all were eager to be at the front. This eagerness noticeably wore off later in the day and the rear guard had lots of company.

At 9.00 a.m. we reached the well at the railroad. It came none too soon for "all were dying for a drink and as hungry as wolves." A hearty breakfast was prepared and a much refreshed bunch of boys continued the hike an hour later.

At noon the big trestle over Sawmill Creek was reached. This, as always, proved a thrilling object, for most of the boys seldom get a chance to stand on a bridge and gaze some two hundred feet to the depths below.

At 2.30 a halt was called, at Round Meadow, for lunch. The rest came as a thankful respite to most of the hikers. Previous to the stop many pestered Alister with the question, "How much further is it?" At each short stop for rest it was harder to get them all going again. Though we stayed at Round Meadow only half an hour, I don't think any one was sorry to leave. What from keeping off the mosquitoes and trying to eat at the same time, no one could rest.

At 3 p.m. we left the meadow for the last stiff climb to the foot of Little White. This last mile didn't pass too badly, for the lunch had greatly revived our lagging bodies. At 4.30 we reached the foot of the peak and by 5 we arrived at Crawford's Lake, our objective for that night's camp. (To be continued.)

We may wonder why we should ask God for anything, since as we are told, "He knoweth our necessities before we ask, and our ignorance in asking." The asking, however, is essential to the receiving, if we are to understand the receiving to mean recognizing God as the Giver. In all our asking, therefore, it is God that we want, above all other wants. To ask is simply to open the door of our hearts, and bid Him enter. Our consciousness of His presence is the sign that He has accepted our invitation to visit us.

Every one is busy picking and packing apricots. There is a heavy crop of them.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parker have moved into their beautiful new home which they have built on the townsite.

Mrs. Fell, of Penticton, has been spending a vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Dave Gellatly.

Mrs. F. A. Dobbin returned from Kelowna Hospital on Monday and it is expected that she will soon be quite well again. Baby Pritchard is another visitor to Kelowna Hospital to have her tonsils out. She is doing nicely.

Visitors from Saskatchewan are Mrs. George Mackay, who is the guest of Mrs. R. L. Currie, and Mr. and Mrs. Chance Currie, visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Currie.

The baseball team visited Peachland on Monday and enjoyed a good game, the result being 10-3 in favour of Peachland.

1ST RUTLAND TROOP

"Do A Good Turn Daily"

"Kamp Kuhluluh"

Eighteen Scouts are encamped here for a week, on the old camp site near Mr. Kennard's place at Okanagan Centre. Three patrols are organized in three separate patrol camps, with cooking facilities of their own, and there is keen competition between them in the matter of quality of meals served and cleanliness of the camp. A good deal of work is being done on Scout tests by all hands and a full report will be given next week.

At present the Beavers are leading in the camp competition, but very few points separate all three patrols.

The hot weather makes bathing period the most popular time of the day. It was encouraging to see so many visitors in camp on Sunday, bespeaking a lively interest in the Scout work on the part of the parents.

The S.M. has the help of G. B. Harrison as A.S.M. and J. J. Claxton as Quartermaster and First Aid man. Troop Leader Ritchie was in attendance for the first three days, acting as assistant until arrival of A.S.M. Harrison.

pounds of weiners. Afterwards a dance was held in the Hall. About $25 was cleared towards the kitchen fund.

Miss Grace Angus, R.N., had an interesting case on Saturday. Miss Edwina Paynter's wolf hound and Henry's cocker spaniel had a scrap with a porcupine, which gave them too many souvenirs for comfort. Henry managed to get the quills out of the spaniel, but, after taking nearly a hundred out of the wolf hound, it was decided to call the District Nurse. Chloroform was obtained from the doctor and Miss Angus made the front lawn into an operating theatre and

WOLF CUB NOTES

1st Kelowna Pack

"Do Your Best"

It was with very great regret the 1st Kelowna Pack said goodbye last week to Lady Cubmaster Barbara Day, who has returned to England with her parents. Miss Day was only with the Pack for a few months but in that short time earned a very secure and lasting place in the Pack's affection, and she will be greatly missed. Prior to her departure, the Pack presented Miss Day with a large framed photograph of the Cubes, and in saying goodbye they wish her the best of luck and every possible happiness in the years ahead.

The Rovers are now being Godfather to the Pack, and Rover Scout Eric Lyons has fortunately and kindly come forward to act as the Cubmaster. He will continue to have the assistance of Rover Scout Jim Treadgold as Assistant Cubmaster.

The camp at Cedar Creek was held with great success. Eric Lyons gave the Cubs a wonderful time. P.L. Bill Cross assisted with the camp, and the Cubs thank him for doing so. A meeting will not be held till school opens.

J. TREADGOLD, A.C.M.

chloroformed the dog while the family hastily pulled the quills out. The whole head was one bristling mass of porcupine quills. The patient was put to bed with hot water bottles and rugs, where she soon recovered her usual good spirits. Miss Angus is to be congratulated on her work as an anesthetizer, as both the vet. and the doctor said it was dangerous to chloroform a dog.

Mistress: "I hear sounds in the master's room, go and see who he is talking to."

Maid (returning): "There is only the radio there. It is talking to itself."

COOL—AND CLEAN

The heat and dust of an Okanagan summer seems to defy our best efforts to keep cool. Clothing wilts and loses its fresh appearance—and dust makes rapid inroads.

It's part of the dry cleaner's job to help you look cool and clean.

EAST AND WEST LAKE SIDE ROADS

Following the conference at Penticton last month between representatives of the principal Boards of Trade in the Okanagan at which the view of the Kelowna-Naramata road should be undertaken as part of the government programme for relief of unemployment found little support, the case for and against various road projects has been aired at considerable length in the valley press. No one scheme seems to find united approval, each locality apparently favouring its own pet project. Penticton wants to see completion of work now under way, such as the Hope-Princeton, Yellow Lake and Penticton-Carmi roads, before any large new projects are undertaken. Vernon, on the other hand, would like to have the projected new route to Arrow Lake, via Sugar Lake, Sitkum and Fosthall Creeks, opened up in place of the Edgewood road, which has proved a disappointment, being difficult to maintain and open only for a comparatively short portion of the year, owing to the high altitude of the Monashee summit. On the other hand, the summit between Sugar Lake and Arrow Lake, via Sitkum Creek, is said to be only 2,900 feet above sea level. The eastern end of the new road would be opposite Nakusp, with which connection would be made by ferry. From Nakusp there would be direct road connection with Nelson and Edgewood. Wide benches are said to extend from the eastern terminus of the road northward along the west side of Arrow Lake, which provide an easy route for construction of a road to Arrowhead, connecting with that now in existence to Revelstoke.

Then there is the Peachland-Princeton road, recently opened through by the unaided efforts of the people of Peachland. This cuts off about thirty miles for the people of the northern and central Okanagan as compared with the present route to Princeton via Penticton, and should be of value when the Hope-Princeton road is completed, presumably next year, as a short cut to the Coast, but it has been damned with faint praise by the Penticton Herald, whose principal criticism is that faster time can be made by the southern route, a Penticton motorist party recently having taken four and one-quarter hours to cover the distance, figured as sixty-two miles on their speedometer, between Peachland and Princeton, as against only three and one-quarter hours for the hundred miles between Princeton and Peachland via Penticton. The comparison between a new, rough mountain road, pushed through by the voluntary effort of a community blessed with little superfluous cash, and an old-established government highway upon which many thousands of dollars have been expended over a long period, is scarcely a fair one. Given a chance by the expenditure of some government funds in widening, reducing curves and cutting down grades, the Peachland-Princeton road should prove a valuable auxiliary to the Hope-Princeton highway and should cut down the time in transit to the Coast by at least an hour for people in the Okanagan living north of Peachland. Here is what an old-time resident of Osprey Lake district has to say about it in a letter to the editor of The Courier:

"First, the grade of the road is good. There is a climb for two or three miles from Peachland, and a drop, with a couple of switchbacks, at the Thirsk end, but the rest of the twenty-three miles is over a comparatively level plateau country. The funds for the completion of the road were limited, hence the roadbed is rather narrow, particularly where hills are climbed. The widening out of spots on these so that cars can pass will be next in order."

"This new road places Kelowna within about forty miles of Osprey Lake and within seventy miles of Princeton. Kelowna is now nearer to Princeton by road than is Penticton and, after the completion of the Hope-Princeton highway, will have a direct motor road to the Coast. The whole route passes through a country unsurpassed for scenery by any route in the province and will well repay the tourist for an inspection."

Writing to the Vernon News recently, Mr. P. H. L. Seeley introduces an unnecessary note of bitterness into the discussion of road projects. Urging the widening and improvement of the westside road north of Westbank, he dubs the request of Kelowna for completion of the Kelowna-Naramata road as "small town selfishness." He also says that the fact that settlers risk their lives in travelling on the narrow road north of Westbank ferry wharf does not seem to worry the people of Kelowna.

This is absolutely wrong. There is no opposition on the part of Kelowna to improvement of the westside lake northwards. In the interests of all, it is desirable that the road should be made safe and fit for traffic. What the people of Kelowna do oppose, and in their stand they should be supported by the people of Vernon, is that there should be any attempt to locate the main Okanagan highway solely on the west side of Okanagan Lake. A glance at the map is sufficient to show that the most populous areas would be best served by the present arrangement, by which the main highway is located on the west side of the lake from Penticton to Westbank and on the east side from Kelowna to Vernon, were it not for the misadventure of the ferry crossing. From Okanagan Mission to Naramata, on the east side, the country is almost uninhabited, while on the west side, from Westbank north, the area of cultivable land is very limited in extent and there are miles of coast line without a single resident. The whole population is but a handful compared to the seven or eight thousand in the Kelowna district and the large number comprised in the Peachland, Summerland and Westbank areas.

Again, the map reveals that to reach Vernon by the westside route a long detour to the south is necessary, the road round the north end of Okanagan Lake resuming a crooked forerunner, with the Goose Lake divide to cross to boot.

Mr. Seeley points out, as an urgent reason for establishment of the westside road as a main highway, the serious interruption to ferry traffic caused in two successive winters by formation of ice on the lake, but, at the best, only a roundabout alternative to the ferry would be available to the large population on the east side of the lake as compared with the short, direct route, open all the year, which the Kelowna-Naramata road would provide, a route available to the whole Okanagan Valley and not merely a local road.

Mr. Seeley trots out the old bogey of excessive cost, quoting the engineer's estimate, "probably inadequate," as $600,000, but any one who knows the district and the mileage of construction to be undertaken realizes that figure is absurd. Mr. M. Heron, in a spirited reply in the Vernon News of July 16th, bluntly gives it his opinion that "this estimate was put on the Naramata road in order to prevent the building of it. I have been over the proposed route five times and have examined it very closely. I can safely say that I would be glad to have a contract for building it for $50,000."

Mr. Heron, who is General Road Foreman for South Okanagan for a number of years and achieved a reputation for economical and successful road construction, also reveals that the original engineering estimate on the relocation of the Vernon-Kelowna road from the end of Woods Lake to Vernon was $190,000. Mr. Heron located another route, and the road was constructed for $39,000.

"I am all with Mr. Seeley for the improvement of his westside road," declares Mr. Heron, "but do not see how he will better his own cause by knocking Kelowna and the proposed Naramata road."

It seems somewhat ridiculous that there should be any bickering about the projects upon which public money should be spent when there is such urgent need of employment. If Canada could shoulder with equanimity a war debt of some two billions of dollars for destructive purposes and our own province can carry a burden of hundred million dollars, much of it for extravagant and unprofitable expenditures, surely it should be possible to find the money for really constructive work that will gridiron the country with badly needed roads and at the same time provide honest employment for men who are out of a job through no fault of their own. Better to run to debt in this way that will bring an ultimate return than to continue with the pitifully inadequate forty cents a day dole that is helping to make confirmed hoboes out of young men but a few months out of good homes—a mere makeshift whose inauguration betrays a lack of constructive policy upon the part of the authorities concerned.

AFTER SIXTY YEARS

On Monday the sixtieth anniversary of the entry of British Columbia into the confederation of the Dominion of Canada was celebrated with fitting ceremonial at Victoria. It took four years for the then Colony after establishment of the Dominion in 1867 to decide to cast in its fortunes with what seemed at the time practically an alien country. There was strong opposition to entering confederation on the part of those who desired annexation to the United States and by others who preferred continuance of the status of a separate Colony, but in the end union triumphed and British Columbia has no reason to regret the step then taken, even if at times her loyalty to the Dominion has been sorely tried.

The first severe test came when the Dominion showed no effort to make haste in providing a transcontinental railway which formed the chief basis of union, and the provincial administrations that held office during the intervening years until belated construction began along the Fraser River had a strenuous task to prevent British Columbia from breaking the slender bonds that bound her to the remainder of Canada. There have been other causes for irritation, the calm disregard of the East for many years of B. C.'s at-

Social Note

VANCOUVER, July 20th.—Saturday I lifted a couple with Jim Butterfield in the "newspaper box" of a certain Hastings Street beer bazaar which, like all the others is jokingly dubbed "parlour." There were other scribes, including a thirty editor, present, but possibly they were not there for publication. Only the dynamic force behind "The Common Round" goes his way untroubled by common or public opinion.

The "Walkies"

Next profitable to the opening of a beer parlour in Kelowna would be the inauguration of a walkathon—it is met with sufficient approval and disapproval. Here the inane "walkies" are cleaning up big money for the promoters. Despite the universal wall of hard times, thousands upon thousands of people are paying real money to witness a parade of very ordinary and fagged youths who are doing little more than standing around and looking bored. Once in a while one sings, occasionally another blows a mouth organ, and other entertainers of mediocre ability are called in to play up to the gullibility of the Vancouver public.

At the Vancouver Theatre the few couples remaining are permitted to sleep for eleven minute intervals, with four minutes in which to drag themselves from the arms of Morpheus and get back on the stage. They have stood this for more than 1,100 hours and one still in fair shape.

This may be a great endurance contest, but it is about as useful to humanity as flag pole sitting or a long distance spitting match. The promoter, not the participant, rakes in the shekels. The six-day bicycle race, while grudging, at least had merit in that it demanded skill as well as endurance. What is skillful in Walkathon?

Rapid Progression

So many people are worried about the future of British Columbia's largest populated centre that it is almost amazing. It seems to me they are in a rut. All around them is evidence that Vancouver is building and growing steadily. The huge Burrard Bridge will be a magnificent structure when completed; the oval swimming pool here in Kitsilano, which I see as I write, will be the largest and best on the continent; the Marine Building is one of the most striking and modernly equipped on the Pacific Coast; the new home of the Royal Bank is truly metropolitan.

Cost cities inevitably have their unemployment problems, abnormal now but not beyond salvation. There are still jobs for competent men and women. A young lady from Los Angeles, out of work in California for some time, told me she went to work here ten days after her arrival. In every city things are just a little worse than in another. People persist in having it that way.

The Girls' Pyjamas

Old timers will recall when pyjamas were used to sleep in exclusively. These nights are rapidly passing into oblivion. This is the day of the girl pyjamas. Their (the pyjamas) beauties long hidden save to the fond eyes of husbands, they have come to public view in all their gorgeous resplendency.

Pants of a width putting to shame the most ultra college balloon creations now sport the glorified female, called beach pyjamas, they are by no means confined to the beaches. They arrest the male optic in town and out, in the home and on the roof-tops.

They are great for lounging and a boon to our fair sisters. Years ago when she got up to do the house-work, a girl put on her nightgown, put on three petticoats, wore like a sailor on her corset and—well, and so on. Now she simply changes from one pair of pyjamas to another and she is dressed. (When she goes swimming she is undressed—save for a bit of bathing suit here and there. The sun kisses most everything these delightful days!)

BANK LOSES BIG SUM THROUGH SMART TRICK

VANCOUVER, July 23.—As J. S. Robertson, teller of a Royal Bank branch here, completed change for two $1,000 bills for a stranger today, the phone rang. When he turned round again, the stranger was gone. So, too, was a parcel of bills, value $3,500, that had been on the counter.

titude in opposition to Oriental immigration, onerous freight rates and vexed question of better financial terms, but through it all there has been a steady increase in the feeling of pride in being a component part of the most important self-governing domain within the Empire, and only an odd fraction of the discontented crowd would now suggest that British Columbia should withdraw from the federation and assume a position of splendid isolation as a separate colony. The vast majority of her people are loyal to the Dominion and willing to take their chance with it through weal and woe.

FOXGLOVE OF VALUE AS MEDICINAL PLANT

(Experimental Farms Note)

Foxglove (Digitalis purpurea) has become one of the most important drugs in Canada in the treatment of dropsy and certain diseases of the heart. In every instance the leaves are imported either from England or the United States. It is not well known that digitalis occurs wild as a garden escape in British Columbia. The suitability of this wild plant has been studied by several with a view to its medicinal value. These investigations have revealed the fact that the leaves as grown here are of high medicinal value. There seems, therefore, no reason why the province of British Columbia in general, and Vancouver Island in particular, should not become the cultural source of the digitalis used by manufacturers in Canada. An exhibit of leaves grown and dried by the Sidney Experimental Station was made at a recent medical conference in Vancouver. The appearance of the leaf was outstanding.

Manufacturers, no doubt, would hesitate to purchase leaves without the assurance that they had been dried at a uniform and constant temperature of from 55 to 60 Centigrade, as this factor has much to do with the potency of the leaf. Results at Sidney would show that a yield of over 8,000 pounds per acre, green leaf, is possible; while the drying ratio is about 4 to 1. Thus it would appear that nearly one ton of dried leaves may be obtained per acre. At prices paid for well dried leaves, the profit arising from the culture of this plant is attractive. If an industry of any worth were to be built up, attention should be given to seed arising from plants producing many and large leaves, while the flower stalk should receive little attention from this viewpoint. We have no hesitation in saying that the yield of dried leaves per acre might be greatly increased by means of producing the young plants from seed of known parentage.

Mr. J. W. Crane, Assistant Superintendent, Canadian National Railways, Kamloops, made a business trip to Kelowna this week. Mr. Crane, who was in town, guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Mrs. Arthur W. McCurdy, of "Malabar Park," the Malahat, announces the engagement of her daughter, Leonora, to Mr. Albert Seymour Towell, the marriage to take place early in August. Mr. Towell was Principal of the High School here for several years, and is now Principal of the Nanaimo High School.

A plane carrying directors and other officials of the Alcan. Enterprise, an air service between Nelson, Trail, Penticton, Kelowna, Vernon, Kamloops, Vancouver and Victoria, is due to arrive in Kelowna some time next week preparatory to commencement of a daily service about August 1st. Further particulars will be available upon arrival of the plane.

It will be learned with general regret that Mr. Bert Fiddes, who for the past two years has been carrying on the young people's work in First United Church, is to leave Kelowna about the middle of August, having accepted a position under Rev. E. McCougan, of Chalmers United Church, Vancouver. He will specialize in Sunday School and young people's activities, as he has been doing here with marked success.

Just as happened twenty years ago (see "Twenty Years Ago" in this issue), July is doing its utmost to make up for a wet cool June by turning on its best brand of summer heat. The all-prevailing ambition these days is to find a cool spot, and the approach of evening, with its delightful temperature, is welcomed by all who have to labour, either in the broiling sun or in hot and stuffy kitchen, office or store.

Mr. B. Irvine, of the Radio Branch, Department of Marine, with headquarters in Vancouver, spent Tuesday and Wednesday in town checking up on local interference with radio reception and upon licences. He found conditions fairly good as regards interference, his car being equipped with a very sensitive eight-tube superheterodyne set for detection purposes. On the other hand, he ascertained that a number of people have allowed their radio licence to lapse and are operating their machines without a permit. This renders them liable to a heavy penalty, and those whose names he has noted will likely have to appear in court, unless they obtain the necessary documentation forthwith.

GIRL GUIDE NOTES

2nd Kelowna Company

"Our Camp," to which the Kelowna Girl Guides have been looking forward throughout the year, has come and gone, and all we now have left are the memories of seven days of happy adventure in the great out-of-doors. Camp commenced on July 10th, when twenty-eight of us Guides, accompanied by our Captain, Mrs. A. H. Povah, and Lieutenant, Mrs. H. M. Spencer, fared forth from the confines of the city to our favorite camping grounds at Cedar Creek.

On our arrival in camp we found the Scouts had left everything in excellent shape, and all that remained to be done was to pitch additional tents, allot tents to each patrol, gather fire-bushes and make everything ship-shape. Great was the excitement of the reality of the first night in camp. "O my bed is hard!" "My feet are out!" "What was that?" "I heard something, too," might be heard far into the night. No rousing whistle was necessary the following morning as most of the tenderfoots were awake at 4 a.m. (so they said).

We awoke on Sunday (Visitors' Day) to the patter of rain on our tents. However, the shower soon passed and enabled us to have our service in the woods. Rev. C. E. Davis led us in this hour of worship, which was both beautiful and impressive and will long be remembered by both Guides and Guides.

The feature of Monday's activities was a visit from Mrs. Donald Black, her sister, Miss Lee, and their chauffeur, Mr. M. Black. Mrs. Black, dressed in a Korean costume, gave us a delightful and instructive talk on Korean life and customs. She brought with her several dolls dressed to demonstrate the different types of Korean people.

Tuesday afternoon found every one very busy but secretive. Why? Our fancy dress supper was at hand. "Have you got this?" or "Can you lend me that?" was being hurled at everyone. Many clever costumes were revealed at the grand parade. The Shamrock Patrol made a striking picture as an Indian family. Every detail was carried out with studied care. This warlike tribe carried off the first prize. Other prize winners were Queen of Mars; a beautiful imaginary audience; a very lovely and slightly draped in a hood, the skull of some ancient animal hung from its shoulders and bones rattled at its waist. Another interesting costume (if costume it may be called) was made from five Guide ties representing a chorus girl. Other effective costumes were made from fir boughs, Oregon Grape, etc. Our Captain and our Lieutenant, as Korean host and hostess, presided over our festive board. Needless to say, we had a gay and happy camp fire and studied the stars.

Wednesday, the Brownies paid us their annual visit. Shortly after their arrival we all participated in a peanut hunt. After our afternoon rest both Brownies and Guides played games until time for the ever refreshing swim. Seven o'clock and the hour for the departure of our little sister, Brownies came and in soon. We regret that the Brownies were disappointed in not being able to stay with us for our bonfire. Next year we will arrange to have the cars call for them at a later hour, if possible.

The big event of Thursday was a visit from several Rotarians and their wives. They joined us at the supper table and proved themselves jolly good sports by standing in line to wash their dishes even as we had to do. The men, challenged us to a baseball game. What a game this turned out to be! Try as they might, the men could not withstand the strong batting and the speed of the girls. The score was—but perhaps for the sake of our guests we had better not give it. As twilight fell we gathered around the camp fire and Rotarians and Guides joined together in song.

Our patrol leaders and seconds, in a brief torch lighting ceremony, outlined the Laws of Guiding, making a fitting closing for our last camp fire. Then the Rotarians took their turn at playing host and treated us all to ice cream and on behalf of Mr. Maddin gave us all tickets to the theatre. Taps closed a truly delightful evening.

Our last night in camp was free—that is, we could sleep where we chose. All the Junior Guides migrated to the beach, bags and baggage. Before retiring to their story beds they joined with us all in rousing cheers for our Captain, Lieutenant, cook and nurse and the echoes of these cheers were heard far into the night.

Friday morning we broke camp, leaving most of the tents and equipment for the Cubs and Sea Cadets.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who in any way helped to make our camp the success it was. To our Association, who provided us with such ample supplies to the kind and interested friends who sent down delicious treats, to our nurse who looked after our well-being and to our cook, who completely won the hearts of all the Guides.

Mr. Dugald Campbell, of the Canadian Linotype Co., Ltd., Vancouver, paid a short visit to town on Thursday.

Rev. W. R. Brown, of James Bay United Church, Victoria, who has been officiating at First United Church here during the absence of Rev. A. K. McMin on vacation, will conclude his ministry on Sunday next, when he will preach at the morning service on "Eccentricity of Religion" and in the evening on "The Broken Things of Life." Mr. Brown, who leaves at the beginning of the week for Victoria, has enjoyed his stay in Kelowna very much. He finds the climate, if hot, is delightful, and he is surprised at the fact that in the sea of mountains that is supposed to constitute British Columbia such a wide valley can be found, with the surrounding hills in no sense appearing to overhang and overwhelm the dwellers therein.

You are in most danger when you have nothing to do.

OBITUARY

Mr. John James Hereron

Through the medium of the Cowichan Leader, of Duncan, Vancouver Island, details have come to hand of the death under sad circumstances of Mr. John James Hereron, from early boyhood until recently a resident of the Kelowna district.

Following an accident nearly two years ago in which he suffered concussion, Mr. Hereron had been residing at Cowichan Lake, for part of the time with his sister. He was last seen alive about 10:15 p.m. Saturday night, July 10th. His body was discovered about 1 p.m. next day, lying at the bottom of the Cowichan River, by Dr. A. R. Bechtel, of Victoria, who was fishing in front of the Riverside Inn. An inquest, held at Duncan, failed to reveal the circumstances under which the unfortunate man met his death, and a verdict of death by misadventure was returned. The most likely theory seemed to be that he had walked out on a float during the darkness and had tripped over an outboard motor that lay on it, plunging into the river. It was also brought out in the evidence that since his accident he had been subject to attacks of weakness, during which he would become quite limp. There were no bruises or marks of violence on the body.

The funeral was held on Thursday, July 16th, service being conducted at St. Edward's Church, Duncan, and the interment taking place at St. Ann's, Tzouhalem.

Mr. Hereron, who was in his forty-third year, was born at Golden, B.C., but lived most of his life in the Kelowna district, where his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. T. Hereron, were resident for many years. He is survived by one brother, Mr. Louis Hereron, of Kelowna, and four sisters, Mrs. Boulet, of Cowichan Lake; Mrs. M. A. Hauck, of New Westminster; Miss D. J. Hereron, of Vancouver; and Miss A. Hereron, of Kelowna. Mr. Hereron, well-known old-timer, is an uncle.

Mechanically inclined, Mr. Hereron was a good blacksmith and later took up steam engineering, obtaining his papers as a qualified engineer, in which capacity he held several positions in the valley. During the war he enlisted in the forestry draft raised at Kelowna by Capt. G. C. Rose, and went overseas, his mechanical ability enabling him to render valuable service at technical work in that branch. "Jimmie," as he was affectionately known by his many friends in the district and the C.E.F., was of a cheerful, likeable disposition when in good health, and his tragic end in the prime of life is widely mourned.

RUTLAND

Misses Dorothy Meek and Edith Meek are visiting Mrs. W. Gay. They will spend a month here before returning to their home in Vancouver.

A largely attended "shower" was held at the home of Mrs. J. F. Guss on Wednesday last in honour of Miss Joan Carmichael, niece of Mrs. W. R. Craig, whose marriage to Mr. George White, Junior, of this district, takes place this week. The bride-elect was recipient of many attractive gifts.

Rutland beat Peachland in a third game of baseball played in Kelowna on Saturday evening last. Darkness stopped the game in the early stages of the eighth, Rutland winning by 11 runs to 9. Another game may be played before all parties are satisfied. Batteries for the game were: Rutland—Bach, Quigley, Alexander and Baerg; Peachland—H. Cousins, V. Cousins and J. Clements. Umpire, Curran. The locals play at Winfield on Sunday next.

The Wolf Cubs returned home on Friday after an enjoyable four days in camp under the charge of Assistant Cubmaster Ken Bond. Eleven Cubs were in camp for the full period. The Scouts took over from them on the day they (the Cubs) struck camp. Mrs. C. H. Bond and Mr. A. Eutin kindly provided the transportation.

An enjoyable lawn social was held on the parsonage lawn on Friday evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the United Church. The following was the programme:

"O Canada," pianoforte duet, Mrs. Mugford and James Mugford; lullaby song, Mrs. Granger's class; reading, Mrs. Lyman Hood; solo, Mrs. J. Trenwith; reading, Miss Luella Cross; solo, Mrs. H. L. Glenn; pianoforte duet, Miss Doris Schell and Jennie Reid; reading, Mr. Dudley Fitzpatrick; pianoforte solo, James Mugford; reading, Mrs. Lyman Hood; "God Save the King."

Old timers were sorry to learn of the passing of Mrs. J. B. Brown, mother of George and Jack White, of this district, and for many years resident here. Her death occurred at Vernon on Friday last in the Jubilee Hospital, where she had been confined by illness since the death of her husband a year or so ago. The funeral was held in Vernon on Monday, Rev. A. McMillan, of Rutland, conducting the obsequies.

Nearly one hundred planes, American and Canadian, will participate in the official opening of Vancouver's new Seaplane Airport, which began yesterday and lasts until Saturday.

The front page of most Japanese morning newspapers is given over to advertisements. The Japanese figure that the front page is liable to be soiled so they only print advertisements there.

The girls of St. Michael and All Angels Church choir left on Monday for six days camp at Joe Rich Valley, in charge of Mrs. F. Martin and Mrs. C. Hubbard, Messrs. W. M. Fraser, F. L. Gorse and H. Preston very kindly being responsible for their transport. The choir boys returned on Saturday last, looking all the better for a delightful week spent under canvas with the Rector, Mr. F. Nicholas very kindly granted them camping ground on his ranch at Joe Rich Valley.

EXTERNAL PARASITES OF POULTRY

(Experimental Farms Note)

The hot days of summer is the time that calls for close attention to the flock is to be kept free from external parasites.

Body Lice.—If the surroundings are kept in a clean sanitary condition and a dust bath is provided, not much trouble will be occasioned with body lice so long as the birds are in good health, but let any bird get out of condition and it becomes a veritable propagating place for lice. These lice, however, are no great menace as they may be readily controlled. There are numerous lice powders on the market, any one of which will get good results. Ordinary fine road dust with a little flour of sulphur added, about a quarter of a pound of sulphur to a quart of road dust, will be found to give satisfactory results, when carefully dusted through the feathers. Blue ointment, a piece about the size of a small pea rubbed below the vent and underneath the wings, will also prove efficacious but the latter should not be used on setting hens. The most convenient remedy, however, that has been tried out at the Central Experimental Farm is Black Leaf 40, which can be purchased from any seed merchant. Paint the sides of the roosts immediately before the birds go to roost and the fumes will effectively rid the birds of all vermin.

Mites.—Mites are a much more serious menace to the poultryman's profits as they are much harder to get rid of than the body lice, but here again cleanliness is absolutely essential if the pest is to be successfully coped with.

When mites are found to be present, the first step in banishing them is to give the house a thorough cleaning. Remove all droppings and old nesting material, scrape and sweep out every particle of dirt and burn it. Then if water pressure is available, turn on the hose, forcing the water into every crack; if, as is the case on most farms, you cannot use this method, it is advisable to scrub down the walls with a brush or old broom, but in any case they should be thoroughly sprayed or painted with a good strong disinfectant. This wash should be repeated in a few days to destroy the mites which hatch after the first application. The disinfectant may be applied with a hand spray-pump, or if one is not available, a

HOW BACTERIOLOGISTS CAN AID THE FARMER

(Experimental Farms Note)

In an Experimental Farms system aiming, above all, to help farmers improve and maintain the quality of their products and to minimize production costs, it is evident that the application of the fundamental sciences must form an indispensable feature of the work.

On every side of farm practice problems arise which have a direct bearing upon bacteria and their activities. Thus in a soil supporting a crop of alfalfa, in a heap of manure, in a silo of corn, in a gallon of milk, in a tank of retting flax, in a colony of bees or a comb of honey, and in the water of a farm well the quality of the products concerned is dependent, in some cases almost wholly dependent, upon the presence and activities of bacteria and related microbes. The proper carrying out of studies on the most diversified phases of farm production requires the active co-operation of the bacteriologist, and that this application may be of definite effect upon the pocket-book of the man on the land may be judged from the scope of the bacteriological work of the Dominion Experimental Farms.

For the dairyman present-day economic conditions have made quality of more importance than ever, and whether one considers fluid milk or manufactured products, quality of the product consumed is limited by the quality of the raw product coming from our farms. For the dairyman it is important to make every drop of milk count these days, and as milk quality is pre-eminently a bacterial consideration, it is the duty of the bacteriologist to study ways and means of improving and maintaining quality and to minimize cost of production.

The crop producer likewise has reason to be interested in bacteriological research. In working the soil he is tilling a living thing, teeming with countless minute organisms without which his plants would starve. These soil bacteria comprise some of the farmer's best friends which the bacteriologist is just getting to know and understand and to train to greater usefulness for the crop grower. An outstanding example of the direct application of the work of the soil bacteriologist is the use of cultures of special types of bacteria capable of providing nitrogen for growing legume crops, and thus sparing the farmer the cost of the soil in addition to improving the crop. The use of such bacteria has resulted in a much wider use of leguminous crops, and the addition of the cultures has often meant the difference between success and failure. In other phases of soil work, such as the study of manures and their effect and the development of bacteriological methods for determining the fertilizer needs of soils, the bacteriologist aims to serve the farmer in a practical way.

The beekeeper must depend upon the bacteriologist for improving his knowledge of the most serious diseases affecting his bees. Moreover, honey, like most other foodstuffs, is subject to serious spoilage and the bacteriologist has been and is finding out why and how to keep it from spoiling. Problems of farm sanitation, water supply and sewage disposal engage the attention of the bacteriologist. Analyses and advice on such questions form part of the work of the Experimental Farms and are of much direct concern to the health of the farmer, his family and his live-stock.

One can truly say that wherever the farmer turns his attention, and much more than he realizes himself, bacteria affect the outcome of his labour and tend to influence the product. It is the work of the bacteriologist to study the harmful, encourage the one group and suppress the other, and so doing endeavour to prove himself a worker for the interest of the man on the land.

A. G. LOCHHEAD, Dominion Agricultural Bacteriologist.

AVOIDING LOSSES FROM SOUR MILK

(Experimental Farms Note)

Every warm spell sees hundreds of farmers lose money through milk being sour on arrival at the milk plant. How can such losses be avoided?

Nowadays it is generally realized that souring of milk results from excessive bacterial growth. Consequently, the first step is obviously to protect the milk from contamination with bacteria, especially from the two main sources—dirty cows and unsterilized utensils and equipment. Milking machines in particular add large numbers of bacteria when not properly cared for.

The shipping can, although generally leaving the dealers in good condition, when next used often contains enormous numbers of bacteria growing in the traces of moisture remaining in it. For destroying this growth, as well as for sterilizing the other metal utensils, a hypochlorite rinse is most effective, as tests conducted by the Division of Bacteriology, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, have shown. (For directions, see Circular No. 64, "The Washing and Sterilizing of Farm Dairy Utensils.")

Since even the most carefully handled milk contains some bacteria, it is necessary to check their growth by cooling to below 50 degrees F. and holding below that point. Promptness in cooling helps conserve the natural "bacterial growth restraining" property of freshly drawn milk, which is of real protective value where milk encounters high temperatures during shipment. Probably the greatest single aid to cooling is a well-insulated covered tank. Such a tank, with either electric refrigeration or an ample supply of ice, is far more efficient than the old-style open concrete tank, saving an enormous amount of ice and labour besides cooling the milk more rapidly and thus improving the keeping quality. The provision of such a cooling tank is good insurance against losses from sour milk.

 TWENTY YEARS AGO  (From the files of "The Kelowna Courier") *****

Thursday, July 20, 1911

"Four Italians were arrested Tuesday night on a charge of vagrancy. They were found sleeping in a C.P.R. freight car."

"With the advent of summer-like weather, Manhattan Beach is again the resort of those who enjoy the delights of camping, and by the end of the week some twelve families will be domiciled on its sands amid the inviting shade of the cottonwoods."

"The summer has struck us 'all of a sudden,' and after the cloudy and cool weather the country has been enjoying for the past six weeks or so, the first few days of the heat wave were particularly trying, not that the maximum shade temperature has been above the normal as yet for this season of the year. It has been ideal weather for harvesting the hay crop, which has been saved in excellent condition."

"For the past week or ten days the government steam-roller has been employed by the city authorities upon crushing and rolling down the rock and sand recently dumped in the centre of a number of streets of the town. The results obtained by its use have been watched very keenly by the citizens, and it must be admitted that the surface obtained on these streets up to time of writing is very indifferent; nor can it be said that the sand with which the rock was covered prior to rolling has worked any wonders. Of course, one never can tell until an experiment has been made, but we opine that those who have occasion to use the roads a great deal will cast many an anathema at the Board of Works ere many moons have passed. The storekeepers on Bernard Avenue do not view the sand with any great favour, as its presence has aggravated the dust nuisance to a marked degree."

"It is reported that the temperature in Ashcroft on Monday reached 110 degrees in the shade, while 106 was registered at Kamloops."

"The cement work on the main ditch of the irrigation system of the Central Okanagan Lands, Ltd., for the water supply of Glenmore has been finished and about fifty men have been paid off."

At a meeting held on July 13th, to consider the feasibility of forming a local squadron of the B.C. Horse, Major Bott, commanding the Coldstream squadron, and Major Mutrie, commanding the Vernon squadron, attended to give information as to organization. After discussion of details, it was decided to raise two troops in Kelowna, one at Okanagan Mission and one in the remainder of the Kelowna rural district. Capt. G. H. Brush, a retired Imperial officer of twenty years service, agreed to take command of the local squadron temporarily, pending permanent arrangements, with Mr. G. Benson as second in command. Subalterns for the respective troops were chosen or were subsequently appointed as follows: Kelowna, Messrs. A. Temple and C. Clarke; Okanagan Mission, Mr. C. K. L. Pyman. Before publication of the current issue of the Courier nineteen men had already handed in their names for the Okanagan Mission troop, bringing it over full strength. The peace establishment of a squadron at that time consisted of a major in command, captain second-in-command, four lieutenants (one for each troop), seventy-four non-commissioned officers and men.

GLENMORE

At the regular meeting of the Council held on the 14th inst., a report was received from the Municipal Pound-keeper showing that 33 head of cattle had been impounded during the month of June and released on payment of fees of $31.00, also that one horse had been taken in which had not been recommended.

A letter was received from the Corporation of the District of Penticton cancelling the arrangements made earlier for an unemployment conference in Kelowna, as relief measures adopted by the Governments made the conference unnecessary.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. H. Reed, with Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Watson and Miss Reed, left by car for Vancouver on Thursday last to attend the wedding of Mr. Frank Watson, which took place on Saturday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Macro must have felt well repaid after their tireless effort in behalf of the Guild funds, when they welcomed such a goodly crowd to the Garden Party on Thursday evening last. The low fee of ten cents was an acceptable charge. Those taking part in the musical programme were: Mrs. Macro, Mrs. Corner, Mrs. Mount, Mrs. Stockley, and Messrs. F. Snowell, W. Sealey and J. Clark. Mrs. George Moubay and Mr. Macro accompanied. Everything panned out well and the evening was fully enjoyed.

A merry party of young people, about twenty, spent a happy evening on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Ray Corner. The guest of honour was Miss Dorothea Hicks, an August bride-elect. The early part of the evening was spent in a sewing bee contest, each guest being supplied with material for a pot holder. Later gifts were presented and really proved a surprise to the recipient. A halt was called at a reasonable hour, as every one is busy this time of the year, and eleven p.m. saw them on their homeward way.

It is good news that Bertie Hume is able to return home this week, and we all hope he will convalesce rapidly.

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Todd are receiving much sympathy from Glenmore and Kelowna friends during Mr. Todd's illness. We are all anxious to receive news of his recovery and trust it may soon come. At the time of writing Mr. Todd had spent a little better night at the Kelowna Hospital.

Last Friday, the annual Tennis Dance, which marks the close of the tournament, took place at the Eldorado Arms. Upwards of 120 guests were present, and in spite of the hot weather the dancing was kept up with great energy and everybody seemed to enjoy it. The music was supplied by the Kelownians and was much appreciated.

Apricot picking is now at its height, and the fruit is generally plentiful and of a good quality. The weather, though favourable for picking, has been almost unbearably hot at times, especially when, as recently happened, a warm wind from across the lake where, at the time of writing, two fires are blazing, sends the temperature up ten degrees in a few minutes! Showers and thunderstorms are predicted and will be doubtless very welcome when they arrive.

Gladys Hunt was the victim of a nasty accident recently. Running across the yard she tripped and fell, pitching on her arm in such a way as to cause a green stick fracture. The arm is, however, steadily improving. Condolences to Gladys!

NOTES AND NEWS FROM LONDON TOWN

A Monthly Caustic

The Trend Of Things

President Hoover is known to his old friends in the city of London as a shrewd and capable man of business, and his proposal to suspend all war debt and reparation payments for one year may be regarded primarily as a business proposition solidly based on sound economic principles. But it happens to be much more than that; and the enthusiasm with which it has been hailed springs not so much from the joy of creditors who have been granted temporary relief from their exorbitant claims, as from a universal feeling that here at last is the gesture for which we have all been waiting. The world has been suffering—to use the modern jargon—to use the inferior complex; lacking in the conviction that better times were ahead. With faith in the future once more restored, the normal resiliency inherent in human nature can be safely trusted to reassert itself. The first faint flush of returning confidence may be discerned in the activity of the stock markets; and although a rise in security values means but little in the vast scale of world depression, and can contribute nothing to the solution of the main problem, it is serviceable as a fairly unerring indication of the general trend. What is essential is a rise in the price of raw commodities. Given that, and all else follows in logical progression. It is sound reasoning to suppose that, with Germany and Austria put on their financial feet again, an increased demand for basic commodities will follow, and that the world slump will come to definite arrest. It may take some time before the huge world stocks of copper, lead, zinc and silver have been reduced to normal proportions, but when once prices and the consumption of the metals have been stabilized at the right levels mines will again be working to capacity. It is in this aspect that British Columbia has a real and vital interest in what promises to be one of the most momentous "messages" ever delivered from the White House to a world beyond the North American continent.

The Crisis That Collapsed

Against the larger utterance from Washington the twitterings of our politicians during the past few weeks have a singularly thin and unimportant sound. A violent difference between the Government and the Liberals, on a question of a principle involved in one of the clauses of the proposed new Land Tax, developed about the middle of the month into what promised to be a political crisis of the first order. For a few days it seemed as though an irresistible force had met an immovable body, and that at long last we were within sight of a general election. But labour is in power and wants to remain so as long as possible; the Liberals are awaiting the passing of the electoral reform bill in the House of Lords, and profess meanwhile a sense of public duty so strong as to compel them to the sacrifice of their most cherished convictions rather than risk any action that might precipitate so national a calamity as a Tory Government and Protection. Between antagonists holding views so mutually accommodating the conflict has merely resolved itself into a search for a formula ingenious enough to prevent both parties with the illusion of victory; and Mr. Lloyd George, who on one day made public declaration that he and his followers were prepared to die in the last ditch before they abandoned their position, was found on the next exploring in the company of the Prime Minister all the channels that lead to a way out of the ditch, and awkward utterances alike. The formula was found, was presented to the House in Committee in the form of an amendment, and was ruled out of order! But no matter; the crisis had been passed, and the country had been saved. What more do you want?

The Problem Of The Dole

The Royal Commission on Unemployment Insurance has presented its interim report after six months' labour. An exclusive creation of the Government, the Commission's function was to devise broad principles of reform in the dole system. Unemployment relief is costing the country $500,000,000 a year more than is raised by the contributions of employers and employed. To remedy this state of things the Commission makes three recommendations: increase in the rates of contribution; reduction in the rates of benefit; and an increase in the contribution from the State. It points out that last month 410,000 persons were drawing benefit who had paid fewer than thirty contributions in the previous two years; that the period during which benefit can be drawn is practically unlimited for persons technically belonging to insured trades, and that certain classes of workers are qualified for benefit though not properly insurable at all. The report covers both the financial debility and the glaring individual abuses of the present system, and suggests ways and means of repairing the twin defects in the structure. This would be well were all well with "the state of Denmark;" but unfortunately it fixes on a Government, sustained by a dole-drawing electorate, the onus of doing a number of things prejudicial to its interests at the polls. To make the dole a genuine form of unemployment insurance, instead of being, as it is at present, a disguised form of poor relief, will cost votes. The Government would rather it cost money. It has brushed aside the report of its own Commission, and has decided to continue to stagger along with the assistance of ruinous grants in aid from the Exchequer.

ROYALTY AT CENTENARY CEREMONY

The Duke and Duchess of York leaving Westminster Abbey following the centenary commemoration service of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem recently. It is one of few occasions that they have appeared in public in uniform.

Randolph Bruce, Her Royal Highness gave a reception to officers of the Royal Scots at Chesterfield House, and the occasion was made the opportunity of presenting her with an inkstand, paper-weight and a letter-opener, each modelled in silver and incorporating a typical Rocky Mountain animal. In making the presentation, His Honour said:

"Your Royal Highness, before asking your gracious acceptance of this gift, may I say that the hearts of your Canadian Scottish were deeply touched by the conspicuous honour you conferred upon them in graciously granting your approval to their affiliation with the ancient and gallant Royal Scots and for the further honour of your becoming their Colonel-in-Chief."

"The effect has been far-reaching. It has strengthened their loyalty and devotion to the Crown, and was hailed not only in the regiment but throughout the whole of British Columbia as another bond of Empire. The double honour, unique in itself, was not undeserved, as in the Great War your Canadian Scottish won many battle honours, and were awarded no fewer than four V.C.s."

"Since your royal recognition the Regiment has grown in popularity. Within the past year a second battalion has been raised with headquarters at Duncan, and other companies have been raised at such important points as Courtenay, Nanaimo and Saanich."

"The Regiment eagerly looks forward to the day when their Colonel-in-Chief will receive their homage and inspect them in person. In the meantime, as a tangible token of their deep gratitude, they beg your gracious acceptance of this gift, which bears emblems of the characteristic fauna of their Province."

In her reply Princess Mary, expressed her profound thanks for the gift and her appreciation of the spirit which prompted its presentation.

The Agent-General's Tour

The Hon. F. P. Burden, the Agent-General for the Province, has been undertaking a self-imposed task in the interests of the timber industry, and has been making an extensive tour of the North of England for the purpose of personally investigating the lumber situation and surveying the possibilities of a more general use of B.C. woods in the United Kingdom. Among the places visited have been the Grimsby Docks, where considerable quantities of B.C. timber are being employed in the docks extension works, and of the quality of which the contractors speak in the highest terms; Stockton-on-Tees, where the Agent-General investigated some complaints received from some local firms, and the Highland Exhibition at Edinburgh, where the grand display of the Forest Products Research Laboratory included a whole range of B.C. woods. Driving his own car, and making his way by easy stages from point to point, the Agent-General did not disdain to visit the humblest factories. Wherever shocks and boxes were being manufactured he was at pains to advance the qualities of the lesser known B.C. timbers, and ask that they be given a trial. Altogether, he regards his trip as exceedingly fruitful in possibilities, and calculated to yield valuable results.

Mrs. Burden Talks To Englishwomen About B. C.

The wife of the Agent-General has also been no less busy in the sphere which she has mapped out for herself ever since she arrived in England, and has been tireless in addressing women audiences on the subject of life in the Province. A speaker with an easy conversational style, and gifted with the rare faculty of making an audience feel it is being personally addressed, Mrs. Burden enjoys great popularity, and the demands made upon her come sometimes from the most unexpected places. At the moment she is away lecturing before the Women's Institute at New Ross, Ireland. One of the most important of her recent engagements was an address on June 24, at the Institute of Journalism, where she spoke to a gathering of the British Commonwealth League. Her theme is always the same: British Columbia for British women; but she contrives to impart so many spontaneous personal touches on every occasion that the theme is always fresh.

R.M.S.P.

These letters may convey little to the Canadian reader, but in the Old Country they are as fully charged with meaning as are P.G.E. in your part of the world. They stand for the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, the biggest shipowning combination in the world with a total capitalization of $450,000,000. At the head of it is Owen Cosby Phillips, Lord Kysant, once a clerk in a Newcastle shipping office and today Lord-Lieutenant of Haverfordwest, and Vice-Admiral of North Wales and the County of Carmarthen, one of the few once-important posts remaining over from the Middle Ages. The R.M.S.P. was established by royal charter ninety-two years ago. With its associated companies, it owns 2,519,847 tons of shipping. During the past few years its affairs have been in a bad way, and as the consequences of a preliminary investigation two summonses were issued by the Crown charging Lord Kysant with issuing false balance sheets, and Harold J. Morland, auditor to the Company, with aiding and abetting. The two defendants came before the Lord Mayor on June 2, and have now been committed for trial. There are certain features in the case which give it a particular importance; and apart from the eminence of Lord Kysant, and his long and honourable record in the business life of Great Britain, more than one great company will follow with painful anxiety the issue of a trial which will decide whether certain methods commonly adopted in dealing with company accounts are legal or otherwise.

Suit-Making Extraordinary

Some months ago Sir Malcolm Campbell, fresh from his success at Daytona, challenged the Yorkshire woolen and clothing industry to beat the record of the United States in suit-making. From shearing the wool off the sheep's back to turning out a complete suit the Americans, he said, had taken only 6 hours, 4 mins. That was done in the United States by a former Bradford man in 1928. The challenge was taken up by a Leeds firm on June 23, when, at 8.50 in the morning, ten Waledale sheep, taken from Baildon Moor, were heaved on the stocks and sheared in 7½ minutes; the wool was carded, spun, warped, dyed and woven in 24 mins; and four yards of the cloth 56 inches wide was ready for manufacture. At 11.33 it was despatched to the factory, and at 12.27 the finished article, a suit made to the measurements of the Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Dominions, was handed to Lady Campbell. Total time, 3 hours, 20½ mins. On the following day this record was broken by a Huddersfield firm, who, with the assistance of 94 operatives, converted wool sheared from 12 Kent Southdown sheep into a finished suit in 2 hours, 9 minutes and 46 seconds. The total cost was approximately $500.

A Proposed Tour Of B.C.

British Columbia House recently hit on an excellent idea for capitalizing that interest in the Province which is yearly made manifest by the receipt of thousands of letters of enquiry from every quarter of the United Kingdom and the Continent. In order to afford these and others an opportunity of seeing the country at an exceptional advantage, either from the point of view of business or permanent residence, the Agent-General recently announced that he was arranging, in conjunction with the Canadian Pacific Railway, for a six weeks' conducted tour of the Province under the personal direction of Mr. W. A. McAdam, the Secretary to the Government Office in London. This tour of inspection would, it was felt, enable all who had a serious interest in the province to enjoy the advantage of travelling under official auspices and of seeing all the principal centres under conditions not available to the ordinary tourist. Arrangements provide for the departure of the party in the Canadian Pacific liner "Duchess of Richmond" from Liverpool on July 31st, and returning to Liverpool on September 16th. Unfortunately this idea, made public in the early part of the month, seems to have been launched too late in the day to come to fruition this year. Englishmen plan their vacations many months ahead, and a journey to the Pacific coast is not one which is likely to be undertaken by way of a holiday at short notice. What is, however, specially gratifying is that although, according to reports from B.C. House, the proposed tour may not materialize this year, nevertheless, the number of enthusiastic letters received from enquirers on the office records, whose participation in the tour had been canvassed, are such as to give promise that a similar scheme, if launched early next year, should be practically certain of success.

B. C. On The Movies

British Columbia House, through the courtesy of the Canadian Government Motion Picture Bureau, has lately received a magnificent film dealing with the scenic beauties of Vancouver Island. The "shots" of Victoria and of the Campbell River are arresting enough to give the picture a place in the programme of London's best picture palaces, and B.C. House is now working to the end that London movie fans may have an opportunity of seeing something of the loveliness of the Island. Arrangements have also been made to reproduce the film on non-flam and on a scale small enough for showing in schoolroom and lecture hall. Experts declare that it ought to be in popular demand.

THE RIFLE

Weekly Practice

The weekly practice on Sunday morning, at the Glenmore rifle range, was carried out under conditions of intense summer heat which raised quite a strong mirage, although the ground appeared to be bone dry, and the rifle-men consequently experienced the usual difficulties with elevation, several promising scores being marred by unaccountable outers and magpies mixed in among inners and bulls. The 200 and 500 yards ranges were fired over, a sighter and seven scoring shots at each distance. Scores:

200 yards: G. Kennedy, 29; W. Barnes, 27; G. Rose, 25; D. Addy, 24; J. Martin, 23; R. Haldane, 21; G. Hammond, 21; R. Haug, 21; P. Noonan, 18. 500 yards: G. Rose, 30; D. Addy, 29; J. Martin, 27; W. Barnes, 27; G. Kennedy, 26; P. Noonan, 26; R. Haug, 25; G. Hammond, 22.

FOOTBALL

Kelowna Eleven Captures Robertson Cup Under Trying Heat Conditions

Citizens of Kelowna should take their hats off to the Kelowna soccer team, not merely because they have won the Robertson Cup—a most desirable and worthy effort—but because they survived playing 90 minutes play in 100 degrees in the shade. Why soccer players delight in having their games in the very hottest part of the season, in about the hottest part of the Interior, is somewhat of a problem.

After defeating Kamloops here 4-1 in the Robertson Cup series, the Kelowna team travelled to Kamloops last Monday and played them to a draw 1-1. The Kamloops centre-forward accepted an opening in the first half and beat Lewis for the first counter. Fisher, of Kelowna, however, equalized shortly afterwards. Kamloops took the aggressive but played themselves out, with the result that Kelowna, playing a defensive game the second half, had little trouble keeping their goal intact. The second half was a question of which team could stand the heat best. To put pep into the game was out of the question, as few had the energy to chase the ball and still fewer the strength to put it through the goal for a shot. However, the Kelowna team showed that even under the unaccustomed dry heat they could hold their own and came home with the honor of winning the Robertson Cup, the first time in many seasons.

The cup actually is at present in Merritt, but a body guard is en route, it is understood, to convince the mining town that for once they must give up possession. Whether it is their Scottish motto of "What we have we hold" or not, Merritt has been a very difficult place to place the Robertson Cup away from. They seem to be born with little footballs in their cradles in Merritt, for every man seems to be a soccerite.

Three cheers for Kelowna's eleven, who have once more placed Kelowna on the soccer map!

SOFTBALL

Bankers Find Apt Pupils

The Business Men had an appointment with the Bankers for the settlement of a little account in softball on Tuesday evening. When the Business Men arrived, however, they found the "N.S.F." (not sufficient fielders) sign on the Bankers, and none of them had shows up. The Business Men said "tut! tut!" and said a few things about bankers in general they would often perhaps like to tell the bank managers—when out of ear-shot. However, being business men and used to reverses, they used their heads and invited a number of "Tourists" to join them in a friendly game. The Business Men said they would show them how softball was played. It was easy to learn. Well, well, said the Tourists, this will be interesting. After being shown the right end of the bat, they gave the once-over to Tommy Griffith, who looking fierce and dangerous and a regular Dan McGrew, shot one over the pan. At least that is how he intended to send it, but somehow it hit the batter's bat and if any readers at Rutland find it, please put three cents on it for its return as the postage is higher now. The fielding of the Business Men reminded one of the poetic expression, "The wide open spaces."

Well, the end of the drama was that the Tourists took their lesson seriously and scored approximately 35 runs, while the Business Men were showing them how to score 15. It was a great lesson, but anyhow every one had a good time and lots of fun and the evening was not spoilt, even if the bankers showed a drop in interest.

TENNIS

Visit Of Professional Again Deferred

Mr. St. L. K. Verley, the tennis professional, of Jericho Country Club, has been obliged to change again the date of his visit here and will now arrive the tenth of August, remaining until the fifteenth. There are a few vacancies for lessons still and intending pupils are advised to send their applications to the Secretary of the Kelowna Lawn Tennis Club as soon as possible. It is not necessary to be a member of the Club to take instruction. The Club is sponsoring Mr. Verley's visit, and he is reckoned the best instructor of lawn tennis at the Coast.

Loretta Young, nee Gretchen, has filed suit for divorce, charging wilful neglect against her husband, Granville Gustavus Withers, more familiar to his screen admirers as Grant Withers. The couple incurred parental wrath little more than a year ago when they eloped.

OKANAGAN CENTRE

With an attendance of twenty-four members and visitors, bringing the number up to almost half a hundred, the open meeting of the Women's Institute, held in the garden of Mrs. Venables' home, July 16th, was a very interesting affair.

In a short business session $2.00 was voted for membership in the Canadian Council of Child Welfare and a petition for disarmament to be presented at Geneva in February was discussed and circulated for signatures.

The tea hostesses, Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Ross, served at small tables on the lawn, after which the entertainment feature was put on.

Included in the list of participants were the Misses Caesar, Copeland, Dawson, Glead, Pamela Gibson, Nancy Goldie and Lucy Venables—to say nothing of the dog.

Titles of books were acted in a most charming manner especially effective in the setting of green shrubbery and lawn being "The Five Roses Cook-book," five young ladies in cooks costume, each carrying a beautiful rose appearing in march formation.

The "Atlas" was represented by the scene from mythology where Atlas, supporting the world on his shoulders, sends Hercules for the golden apples. This was played by Miss Copeland and Miss Dawson, attired in the traditional Greek draperies.

The full list of books comprised, in addition to the above, "Under Two Flags," "The Woman in White," "Kidnapped," "Green Mantle," "The Covered Wagon," "The Black Arrow," "When We Were Very Young," "The Bannister" and "A Lane Dog's Diary." Mrs. G. D. Marshall, was awarded the first prize for guessing the list correctly, while Mrs. Bond and Mrs. Maile tied for second prize.

Votes from a distance included, Mrs. Stevens, of Westbank, and her daughter, Miss A. Stevens of the Vernon High School staff, the Misses Lee, also of Westbank, and Miss Bosman, of Vancouver.

Proceeds of the tea amounted to $10.50, which will be added to the general funds of the Institute.

At the special school meeting, called for Tuesday evening, the financial affairs of the annual meeting were ratified and Mr. Glead was elected supervisor of the building of the new school-house.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Gibson, their two daughters and little Lucy Venables were week-end guests at the Tillicum Inn at Sugar Lake, motoring up on Saturday and returning on Monday evening.

Mrs. Glead has her two small nephews, Donald and Cyril Smith, of Vancouver, for visitors this week.

The Rutland Troop of Boy Scouts, under Scoutmaster A. W. Gray, came in last Friday and are occupying the camp near the Hermitage this week.

PROPER TREATMENT OF ALFALFA HAY

(Experimental Farms Note)

Alfalfa hay when properly put up is perhaps the most valuable hay in Canada. Yields as high as 4 1/2 tons per acre have been secured at the Dominion Experimental Station, Windermere. A good crop, however, can easily be spoiled by improper handling at harvest time. Unlike some other hays, alfalfa does not give a farmer much leeway in the time of cutting. This should be done when the plants are from about ten to thirty per cent in bloom. At this time many small shoots will be found at the base of the plants. These shoots will make the second crop. If the time of cutting is delayed these small shoots will be cut off.

When the weather is bright it is easy to put up good alfalfa hay. Since the leaves contain a large part of the nutritive value, it is absolutely necessary that as few as possible of them be lost in the hay-making operations. When the upper layer of the swath has become wilted it should be put in windrows. A side delivery rake will do the work well in a heavy crop. If necessary, the windrow should be turned, and this operation can also be done with a side delivery. Where the crop is light an ordinary horse rake is preferable. If the crop is to be put in coils this operation should be done while there is still a certain amount of moisture in the stems, the size of the coils depending on the amount, of moisture present. Alfalfa should not be left in the field any longer than necessary.

H. CHESTER,
Dominion Experimental Station,
Windermere, B.C.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

GLENMORE SCHOOL BUS ACCIDENT

Glenmore, July 20, 1931.

To the Editor,
Kelowna Courier.

I am not a personal friend of Mr. Corner, but, being a pioneer, have known him in his official capacity for a number of years. The Glenmore School Trustees are mostly old-timers, and I am sure they will agree with me that he is a clean, conscientious and honourable gentleman, totally incapable of deliberately endangering little children's lives. The bus passed my house all winter, I have passed it scores of times and especially noted how carefully it was driven. I am the last person to condone carelessness or cruelty to children and animals. I have always protested and fought for them.

Our sympathy went out to the small kiddies, also to Mr. Corner. But we congratulate the mothers that it was not more serious. Had he been driving 35 miles an hour, a terrible crash would have ensued.

Accidents happen to the most careful drivers. Several have had trouble at the same spot. He may have an explanation to make, but the majority know him and know that it was purely an unfortunate unavoidable accident.

Truly yours,
ALICE TUCKEY.

Glenmore, July 21, 1931.
To the Editor,
Kelowna Courier.

Dear Sir,
Having made a thorough investigation regarding the recent school bus accident, the School Board wish to express their appreciation of the manner in which their driver performed his duties. The piece of road on which the accident occurred had recently been graded preparatory to surfacing and, owing to a heavy rain just previous to the accident, was in a very slippery condition. Had our driver been other than careful, we feel a serious accident might have resulted, but we are pleased to report that the road was gravelled immediately after the accident.

Thanking you,
S. PEARSON,
Chairman of the School Board and Road Supervisor.

HOT WEATHER FAILS TO CHECK FISHING

Anglers Get Good Sport At Arthur And Other Lakes

In spite of the hot weather fishing has been good during the past week. F. Day, Jimmy Vint and party got 50 lbs. on the fly at Arthur Lake. They stayed for evening fishing after others had left the lake. They report that the fish rise more readily to the fly in the cool of the evening.

Dick Stirling and Andrew Stirling, son of our local member of parliament, took out five averaging about 5 lbs., from Arthur Lake.

The high man contest was won this week by Peter Mallam with fifteen trout, averaging 3 lbs., taken out of Crooked Lake on spinner and fly. Abe Rankin and party have returned from Bear Lake, and, like the previous party, report wonderful fly fishing.

All parties at the Belgo dam are getting their limit.

Chute Lake has not been good for fly fishing.

THRILL UPON THRILL IN "THE CONQUERING HORDE"

A Feast Of Adventure For Excitement-Craving Public

"The Conquering Horde," which is the feature picture at the Empress Theatre for Friday and Saturday, July 24th and 25th, holds enough thrills in its compass to satisfy the most avid of sensation-craving playgoers.

It is described as a story of men without law. A story of crisp action. A story of barking six-guns. Of wild Comanches. Of thousands of thundering hooves. Of brave men and one brave woman, fighting the perils of the wilderness, the elements and the treacherous outcasts of civilization who prey upon them.

There is 'suspense-sustaining drama, thrilling action and glamorous romance. There is an abundance of whimsical, at times uproarious comedy.

The screen version is based upon the red-blooded story, "North of 36," by Emerson Hough, which statement is sufficient to indicate its quality.

"War Nurse," which comes to the Empress on Monday and Tuesday, July 27th and 28th, does for the women of the Great War what "The Big Parade" did for the men. It portrays the bravery, the hardships and the romances of war nurses in a realistic manner, one of the highlights being the spectacular bombing of an advanced hospital.

The leading roles are capably taken by Robert Montgomery, Robert Ames, June Walker and Anita Page. "Ten Cents A Dance" is a play with a unique title is "Ten Cents A Dance," the leading item on the Empress bill for Wednesday and Thursday, July 29th and 30th.

An emotional tale of a dance hall hostess. A dime a dance. Youth and beauty. . . dim lights and jazz music. . . alluring smiles and captivating glances. . . They crossed her hand with silver. . . at ten cents a dance. A millionaire fell in love with her. . . then suspected her of double-crossing him for a handful of gold. They called her anybody's girl. . . but she was one man's sweetheart. . . still hundreds of men clamoured for her.

Dancing into your heart, Barbara Stanwick captivates your senses in "Ten Cents A Dance," a Columbia screen hit that will delight you with its surprise ending.
